Compile a bibliography of at least 7 -10 references on a topic of your choice—you can use your thesis topic, if you know it. Select your references as if you were writing a research paper on that topic. Each paper you select should have the potential to contribute useful information to your overall research on that topic.

The references listed this bibliography should follow the Council of Biology Editors, Scientific style and format : the CBE manual for authors. The 1994, 6th edition is located on the Ready Reference shelves adjacent to the Reference Desk on the first floor of the library and on the ready reference shelves of the Tower information desk. The call # is T11.S386 1994. It is also online at: http://www.lib.vt.edu/eresources/eref/citation.html Scroll down the list of style manuals to CBE.

Your bibliography must include:

• 3 – 4 references published prior to 1950 – you must search multiple, preferably all, years of each print index to get a reasonable sense of the research that was done on your topic

  1. List each citation you select in CBE format
  2. Indicate the call number for the journal of each citation that you selected
  3. Attach a photocopy of one of your pre-1950 articles
  4. List the names and the years of the print indexes that you searched
  5. List all the subject terms that you used
     a. Indicate which of these terms were successful

• 3 – 4 references published after 1970

  1. List each citation you select in CBE format
  2. Indicate the call number for the journal of each citation that you selected
  3. Print and attach the full bibliographic record of the citations you select
  4. List the names of the electronic indexes that you searched
  5. List all the subject or keyword terms that you used
     a. Indicate which of these terms were successful

• 1 – 2 validated, reliable web site references

  1. List each web site you select in CBE format
     a. be sure to include the date accessed
  2. List the names & url’s of the internet indexes and search engines that you used.
  3. List all the subject terms or keywords that you used
     a. Indicate which of these were successful